SEEKING EDUCATIONAL EQUITY & DIVERSITY

Conversations for Change

Launched in 1987, SEED seeks to create a respectful environment for people to engage in conversations about the impact of race, class, gender, sexual orientation, ability and other defining aspects on their personal lives, on their communities and in society as a whole. Gain personal insights, connect with community, broaden your understanding of others' experiences, and help build a culture of equity and inclusion in our schools and beyond

Who is it for?

Any guardian of a child in DMUSD, SBSB, EUSD or SDUHSD who wants to work towards social justice.

When/time commitment

We will meet about once a month over the course of the academic year. Each session is 2 1/2 hours. Because each session will build upon previous sessions, it is important that you attend all or most sessions. There will be short assignments such as readings, journal reflections, and watching videos.

"SEED is a life-changing program. It is something that simply can't be taught. You have to experience it and live it. It was so much more than diversity work. It was life work, hard work, heart work." - Past participant
